

Life Purpose Report

Have you ever wondered what your life purpose could be?

Or maybe you know what your purpose is but you just can't seem to manifest it well enough? Are you tired of repeating the same non-productive patterns over and over again in your career and/or relationships? Do you have a desire to change it? Then this report is for you.

We all have a life purpose and life lessons.

With this report you will be empowered with the knowledge of that purpose, the available talents that you have to work with and the hidden tools to enable you to deal with your life lessons in a timely and very effective manner. With this clarity, you will unleash much more of your potential.

If you are a parent, these Life Purpose Reports can better enable you to support your child by giving you information that can lead to accelerated growth for them and you. Details such as diet, colors for their room and what games to play are provided in a child's Life Purpose Report. By paying attention to this information, you can have a stronger awareness of your child's challenges before they arise and be cognizant of what approaches, activities and skills will most benefit them.

The written report gives you a concise summary of your life purpose, your role in life, your challenges and tools to overcome those challenges. Because learning is often enhanced with repeated listening, you will receive a recorded copy of the audile part of the session.

In order to prepare this report I will need the following information:

- Full name, as it appears on the birth certificate.
- Date, time and place of birth.
